Details:

SILENT ANGER is a newly created piece of documentary theatre that looks at how extreme views, beliefs and opinions can divide a community. The narrative of "Silent Anger" is set in the communities of and surrounding Stoke-on-Trent and Staffordshire. "Silent Anger" runs parallel and comes directly from a programme of work created by Reveal Theatre called "Game On" which currently works with young people in schools from Stoke-on-Trent. This programme explores how the extremes of political and religious beliefs can affect the young people's communities both inside and outside the school gates.

"Silent Anger" will be used as a stimulus for older pupils from High Schools and Colleges to explore the issues surrounding and combating extremism and right wing views.
